

THE AVA AUDIT

July 24th, 2026

Issue 01

Save the date:

November 6th, 2026

The Inaugural Convention of the Association of Virginia Audiologists will be held in conjunction with the Ruth Symposium at James Madison University

Our keynote speaker, Kim Cavitt, will be discussing important considerations for Virginia-specific health insurance billing and coding, along with other important updates and best practices in clinics.

Keep an eye out for registration details announced via our website:

OUR PURPOSE AND PROGRESS

Insights from the Board of Directors

Our profession and industry are certainly in the midst of uncertainty and a great deal of change...new CPT codes, the continued push for independence and direct access to care, third party “discount” programs, and valuing our time and expertise.

All of us as Audiologists should be aware of these changes, stay on our toes to understand what this means, and advocate that we are the experts in the hearing healthcare space. Outdated regulations and language continue to prevent change and independence, needing updates at both the state and federal level.

Kristin Koch, Au.D.
AVA President

We are looking forward to the connections and outreach that AVA can provide. Many great conversations have already been had to alert people to our new state association and collaborate, with advocacy as our top priority.

Please consider participating in new subcommittees, Town Hall discussions, and our Inaugural AVA Convention in conjunction with JMU.
